

HR EXCELLENCE IN RESEARCH

A European award to support your career as a Researcher

The HR Excellence in Research award is granted by the European Commission. It recognizes institutions that commit to providing researchers with:

- An ethical, inclusive, and secure working environment
- Transparent recruitment practices
- Enhanced support throughout your career

In practical terms, what does this guarantee for you?

Services supporting your research

- Dedicated service units:
  - RePSO@uga: monitors current funding opportunities and calls for proposals.
  - ITO@uga: promotes the valorization and knowledge transfer of research results.
- A comprehensive range of services to help you manage and disseminate your research data and results: a dedicated team and a HAL network, and the Grenoble Alpes Code and Data Unit (CDGA).
- A dedicated International Staff Support Office (ISSO) to assist you with your relocation and throughout your stay.

Support for your career development

- A dedicated advisory service for professional development and researcher mobility.
- Tailored training opportunities: mentoring, ethics, Open Science, languages, etc.
- Regular and up-to-date information on access to public sector positions.

An ethical and responsible framework

- An Ethics and Professional Conduct Committee.
- The HR Excellence in Research award, facilitating participation in the European "Marie Skłodowska-Curie Actions" program.
- Concrete initiatives to prevent gender inequalities in remuneration and professional trajectories.
- Accessible mechanisms for reporting and addressing sexual and gender-based violence, harassment, or discrimination.

Want to learn more?

Find out more, get involved!

Discover the process: HR Excellence in Research

SCAN HERE!

hrs4r@univ-grenoble-alpes.fr